ABOUT MOULINEX

Groundbreaking solutions that make cooking simpler

Moulinex is part of Groupe SEB, the largest small-appliance group in the world. For more than 80 years, the brand has focused on a single idea: making kitchen appliances accessible to everyone, so the pleasure of cooking is never out of reach.

It began in 1932, when Parisian craftsman Jean Mantelet invented a simple vegetable mill that turned cooked vegetables into a smooth purée. In 1956 the brand took the name Moulinex — short for "Moulin Express" — and widened into coffee mills, food processors and the now-iconic Moulinette.

Through the decades that followed, Moulinex helped define the modern kitchen: blenders and microwave ovens in the 1970s, programmable coffee machines in the 1980s, and a design-led range that became a fixture of home décor in the 1990s. In 2001, Groupe SEB acquired Moulinex, bringing deep R&D resources to bear on modernising the range for the homes of today.
