Distinctive Italian moka design, everyday brewing performance

ABOUT THE BRAND

Italian ingenuity, since the 1940s.

From a visionary workshop in Lombardy to a global icon of stovetop coffee.

Pezzetti was founded in the 1940s by the visionary Ezio Pezzetti. In the early 1950s, under his direction, the company patented the Everest Express — the iconic six-cup coffee maker with ten concave sides that remains a design touchstone for the brand today.

In 2004, Abert and Ghidini Cipriano acquired the historic Pezzetti company, shaping it into a global brand recognised for its unique design and iconoclastic style. Every range in this catalogue is built on that same idea — distinctive Italian design paired with dependable, everyday stovetop performance, from the classic aluminium Italexpress to the induction-ready Steeleexpress.

CARE & USE

Replacing the rubber gaskets and filter plate every 6–12 months keeps every Ital Express and Steel Express moka sealing and brewing correctly.

A stovetop coffee icon, ready for South African kitchens.

IT

A growing hands-on coffee culture

South African consumers are increasingly trading capsule machines for hands-on brewing rituals — moka pots meet that demand at an accessible price point, with genuine Italian design heritage behind them.

FU

Gifting & décor appeal

Bold and pastel colour options across Italexpress, Futurexpress and Steeleexpress make Pezzetti a strong add-to-cart and gifting range for both online listings and independent retail displays.

SO

A complete category on its own

Eight distinct ranges spanning entry-level polished aluminium through to induction-ready stainless steel, backed by genuine spares and accessories, let one listing cover an entire stovetop coffee category.

ST

An induction-ready option

Steelexpress works on induction across every colour, and the Silver Solidexpress add further induction-ready choices for the shift to induction cooktops in newer South African homes.

RECOMMENDATION

Lead with colour: feature the Italexpress pastels, Italexpress and Steeleexpress colourways as hero SKUs on major South African online marketplaces, where strong product photography and colour variety drive add-to-cart rates.
